OUR ENVIRONMENT | We’re committed to minimizing our environmental impact—and to do this we’ve developed specific goals and policies related to the materials, supplies, water, and indirect energy we consume.

40%

of our leased space is in LEED-certified buildings

Our square footage dropped 6% from 2012, but not the number of LEED-certified buildings we occupy. As leases expire—such as the 39,770 square feet we added in our 2013 Mohler, Nixon & Williams combination, which expires in December—we’ll look to move to certified buildings.

WATER

More people means more water. But per employee, we’ve reduced our use by two cubic meters a year.

ENERGY USE

Per employee, we reduced our electricity use by 2.5 gigajoules but increased natural gas use by 1.2 gigajoules.*

CONSUMPTION

Though our direct energy use decreased, our materials use (indirect consumption) increased 3.1 terajoules.

WHAT WE’RE DOING TO IMPROVE

In early 2013 we asked employees to Do One Thing: change one daily habit to benefit our communities’ health and well-being. 355 signed up to make a change.

* A joule is a unit for measuring energy, physical work, or heat. One gigajoule is one billion joules; one terajoule is one trillion joules.
